Overview

All parents and community members deserve to understand how well their children’s schools are performing and what is being done to improve them. The goals of the Maine School Performance Grading System (A-F report cards) are to provide a starting point, with easy-to-understand and concise information showing how a school is doing, and to make sure that schools are accountable for explaining school performance to their communities.

No one score or grade tells the whole story of a school. That’s why the grading system is based on several factors, including student achievement in reading and math, growth/progress in achievement, and, in particular, the performance and growth of the bottom 25 percent of students (for elementary schools) and the graduation rate (for high schools). We encourage parents and others to dig deeper by visiting the Education Data Warehouse, which contains multi-year, detailed information about each school and provides the ability to compare a school to others throughout the state using a wide range of measures.

Use the data to support Maine schools

Parents, you can help improve your child’s school – whether it’s getting a B or a D. Here’s how you can get involved and ask questions.

- Are you satisfied with your school’s grade? Does it seem reflective of what you know about your child’s school and the instruction and support your child is receiving?
- Ask your principal or school board about their plans for improvement. Ask specifics: how will your school’s plans lead to improved student achievement? How can you help support your school’s improvement efforts?
- Dig deeper! Go to the Data Warehouse and look up your school. Compare it to similar schools and look at the details.

Methodology

For the elementary school grades, calculations are based on grades 3-8 students who participated in the New England Common Assessment Program (NECAP) in fall 2012, or were assessed using the Personalized Alternate Assessment Portfolio (PAAP) in spring 2012, and who were continuously enrolled at the teaching year school listed on their assessment results. It takes two years of assessment data for a student to be included in the calculations – for this reason, a K-3 school cannot be graded.

For high schools, calculations are based on the 2011-12 Maine High School Assessment (MHSA) and the 2011-12 PAAP, as well as the most recent four- and five-year graduation rates.

The methodology is partially described on the first page of this report and fully described in the methodology document found at www.maine.gov/doe/schoolreportcards.
